

POOLS, JEWELS, TRIMS & 53 OBJECTS OF DESIRE

THE DECOR

APRIL 2020

THE GLAMOUR OF GOING GREEN

CHIC AND SIMPLE
WAYS TO SAVE YOUR HOUSE AND THE PLANET

A FRESH START

LIZ LANGE OPENS
HER DOORS IN PALM BEACH

HOUSE GOALS IN SHAKER HEIGHTS

André Fu in the 36th-floor apartment he designed at the new 53 West 53 building in Manhattan.

BELOW: The bar at the St. Regis Hong Kong, designed by Fu.

Rock STAR

DESIGNER AND ARCHITECT ANDRÉ FU COLLABORATES ON A NEW FURNITURE LINE WITH JANUS ET CIE.

BY BEBE HOWORTH
PRODUCED BY PARKER BOWIE LARSON

Rock Garden chaise with arms, $3,580. BELOW: Fu's new book.

WHEN JANICE FELDMAN, THE CEO OF the luxury outdoor-furniture company Janus et Cie, went looking for someone to collaborate with on a new line, she turned to the Hong Kong-based architect and designer André Fu. Feldman had seen his elegant work on the Cassia restaurant at Singapore's Capella resort and arranged a meeting with the Cambridge-educated Fu in 2017.

"His expertise in honoring heritage with a modern lens is something I greatly admire," Feldman says.

The resulting Rock Garden collection features 18 outdoor teak pieces. Dining, café, and side tables come topped with textured ceramic, while modular and lounge seating cushions are upholstered in a woven smoky-gray Janus fabric. "The collection embraces the poetic qualities of the authentic Japanese garden," says Fu, who was named 2019 Interior Designer of the Year by ELLE DECORATION China.

Lately, Fu's touch seems to be everywhere. He has received commissions from the St. Regis Hong Kong and the Jean Nouvel glass tower at 53 West 53rd Street in New York City, where he completed the first model apartment. Last year, he launched his own lifestyle brand, André Fu Living. This June, the Mitsui Hotel in Kyoto, Japan, also designed by Fu, will open. And a month prior, his latest book, Crossing Cultures with Design, will be published by Thames & Hudson. If he keeps up his current pace, he'll soon have enough work for another volume. janusetcie.com ■

Rock Garden side table, $1,446.

Rock Garden lounge chairs, at left, $4,604 each, and Module Left, Module Center, and Module Right pieces, shown as a sofa, $9,976.

